Conference City: Rome, Italy

Rome is the capital city of Italy and is located in the central-western part of the country. It is one of the most historically rich cities in the world and is famous for its stunning architecture, art, and ancient ruins.

Rome is home to many iconic landmarks such as the Colosseum, the Pantheon, the Roman Forum, and the Trevi Fountain. The Vatican City, an independent city-state located within Rome, is also home to the famous St. Peter's Basilica and the Sistine Chapel.

Apart from its historical significance, Rome is also known for its delicious cuisine, including pizza, pasta, gelato, and wine. Visitors can also enjoy shopping in its fashionable boutiques and markets, as well as experiencing the lively nightlife scene. Rome is easily accessible by air, with two international airports serving the city. There is also an extensive public transportation system, including buses and the metro, which make it easy to navigate around the city.

Why to visit Rome in May?

May is a great time to visit Rome as the weather is warm and sunny, but not too hot like in the summer months. The average temperature in May ranges from around 18°C to 24°C (64°F to 75°F), making it comfortable to explore the city on foot.

Here are some reasons to visit Rome in May:

Mild Weather: The pleasant weather makes it an ideal time to explore the city's outdoor attractions such as the Colosseum, Roman Forum, and other ancient ruins. You can also enjoy strolling around the city's parks and gardens, such as Villa Borghese and Villa Ada.

Fewer Crowds: May is considered to be the shoulder season, which means there are fewer tourists in the city compared to the peak summer months. You can enjoy popular attractions like the Vatican Museums and Sistine Chapel with fewer crowds and shorter lines.

Festivals and Events: Rome hosts several festivals and events in May, including the Festa della Madonna dell'Arco, an annual religious festival celebrated on the first Sunday of May, and the Rose Festival in the town of Genzano, just outside Rome.

Spring Blooms: May is the month when the city's flowers are in full bloom. You can enjoy the beautiful sight of blooming flowers in public gardens and parks, including the famous Spanish Steps, where pink azaleas bloom every spring.

Overall, May is a great time to visit Rome if you want to enjoy mild weather, avoid crowds, and experience the city's festivals and events, while also taking in the beautiful spring blooms.
